OV, Pima County limit in-store dining, close bars, gyms, theaters

Oro Valley rules take effect 8 p.m. Thursday, 3/19

On Thursday afternoon, Oro Valley Mayor Joe Winfield issued an amendment to Tuesday's proclamation of a local emergency, mandating stricter rules for businesses that serve food and beverages, as well as closing bars, theaters, fitness facilities and other gathering places.

Restaurant service will now be

County, OV halt dining-in through the end of March

To combat the spread of coronavirus, Pima County

Supervisors voted 3-2 Thursday morning to mandate the end of on-premises dining in restaurants, food courts, cafes, coffeehouses, retail food facilities and other similar businesses and establishments in unincorporated Pima County until April 1.

Restaurant drive-through, pick-up and delivery services are restricted to take-out, curbside pickup or delivery. Consumption of food and beverages is not permitted on the premises.

Hospitals and senior care facilities are exempted from the rule.

The measures take effect at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 19, and extend until midnight Tuesday, March 31.

As of Thursday night, Oro Valley “bars, taverns, brew pubs, clubs” and other businesses serving alcohol are ordered closed, along with theaters, cinemas, museums, indoor and outdoor performance venues, gyms, fitness, yoga and exercise facilities.

In addition, businesses, employers and houses of worship are “strongly urged to limit gatherings on their premises, establish social distancing practices for their patrons and employees, and avoid social gatherings of more than 10 people.”

Thursday’s changes reflect and support decisions made by the Pima County Board of Supervisors at their March 19 special meeting. The Town of Marana has adopted similar restrictions.

“While each community has unique needs, our goal as a region is to bring Pima County into alignment with the management of COVID-19,” Winfield said. “As this crisis continues to unfold, community leaders are having to constantly reassess current guidelines and determine when to take new measures. Our County Board of Supervisors has determined that encouraged.

The county declaration of emergency also says bars, taverns, clubs, breweries, theaters, cinemas, performance venues, museums, gyms, fitness and recreation centers, studios, bowling alleys and other similar businesses within unincorporated Pima County must be closed through March 31.

County restrictions do not apply to grocery and convenience stores, pharmacies and drug stores, food banks and food pantries, eating establishments located within health care facilities, banks, financial institutions, and concessionaries within Tucson International Airport.

The county board “strongly urges the leaders of the county’s houses of worship to limit gatherings on their premises, and to observe social distancing practices.”

And it urges “all business owners and employers” to establish social distancing practices for patrons and employees alike, and to avoid social gatherings of more than 10 people.

this next level of precaution is necessary, so the Town of Oro Valley will follow their lead and adjust our local recommendations accordingly.”

“Many of our restaurants and other businesses have already taken these precautions in an effort to reduce the spread of coronavirus, and we are deeply grateful,” said Winfield. “Please continue working together to identify creative ways to continue supporting local restaurants and businesses.”

Businesses can seek up to $2M in SBA loans

On Thursday, the U.S. Small Business Administration approved an Economic Injury Disaster Loan

U.S. Small Business Administration

declaration for Arizona that will help small businesses impacted by COVID-19. Individual businesses can be eligible for up to $2 million through the program.

On Monday, Gov. Doug Ducey requested the assistance.

Loans may be used to pay fixed

eatery take-out, delivery

To support local restaurants strapped by the coronavirus threat, The Arizona Daily Star / Tucson.com is producing a dining guide directory that will list take-out and delivery options for all restaurants at no charge.

The directory is slated for print distribution in the Thursday “Caliente” section as well as the Sunday section.

The initiative is called Open for Business, allowing restaurants to tell the public about delivery and takeout services and contact information. Other options are available for providing customers more detailed information.

We are hearing from many businesses trying to deal with the pandemic outbreak of the Corona virus and how to keep their employees functioning.

Being advocates for business, we know that now is the time to consider what your company will do; if your employees can continue to work and how your employees can continue to work.

I have put together a list of considerations for you to review and think about as you consider your plan.

You can find the link below.

As chamber members and business owners, we will want to push for sustainability of our local economy and assist one another in keeping our businesses strong by buying local and from our chamber members.

If you wish to chat about any remote working considerations, please feel free to reach out to me. I am always happy to discuss business and definitely am interested in our shared goal of a strong economy.

Wishing you a healthy month ahead and a strong business.
